On Saturday, November 1, 2014, at 2 p.m., there will be a massive demonstration at the Obelisco (C.A.B.A., Argentina) based around two simple slogans: “Animal Liberation” and “Stop Speciesism.”

As we thought about figures who would be recognized, appreciated and respected, Donald Watson came to find. We decided to put on this demonstration to pay respect to his ideas. More info: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Donald_Watson

The event is completely open to all: independent activists, organized activists, groups, NGOs, initiatives, projects and anyone who repudiates animal exploitation, no matter what his or her ideological, methodological or strategic stance might be.

Attendees are free to bring all kinds of posters, banners, and clothing that alludes to this cause, as well as drums (no leather), megaphones and anything else that will help to enhance and amplify these messages, as long as it is done within a climate of respect and cordiality.

Whoever wishes can bring food (free of animal products or derivatives) to offer passersby.

Unity is strength. Dissemination of information about this event, especially through the media, is appreciated. The idea is that together we can promote the belief that all animals must be respected.

All our welcome to our struggle for a just society free of animal exploitation.

Thank you !
